THE TRUTH ABOUT THOSE DELEGATES

Roosevelt Contests Instigated to Deceive the Public.

ALL BUT 74 WERE ABANDONED

An Examination of the Facts Shows That the Tribunals Which Decided These Contests in Favor of Mr. Taft Were Right in Every Instance—The Remaining 164 Contests Were Privileged, and Their Prompt Abandonment Reflects Upon the Goodness and Validity of the Remainder.

Washington, July 29.—Here are the facts in relation to the contested seats in the Republican national convention. It is a summary of a detailed statement going carefully into all of the cases, a statement so thorough that it takes up 150 pages of printed matter. This statement is signed by Mr. Victor Roosevelt, chairman of the former Republican national committee; by Mr. J. H. Devine of Colorado, chairman of the committee on credentials of the Republican national convention, and by Mr. Charles D. Hillis, chairman of the present Republican national committee.

The total number of delegates summoned to the convention under its call was 1,078, with 540 necessary to a choice. Mr. Taft had 561 votes on the first and only ballot and was declared the nominee. There were instituted against 238 of the delegates regularly elected for Taft contests on behalf of Roosevelt. These contests were avowedly instigated not for the purpose of really securing seats in the convention, not for the purpose of adding evidence which would lead any respectable court to entertain the contests, but for the purpose of deceiving the public into the belief that Mr. Roosevelt had more votes than he really had, as the conventions and primaries were in progress for the selection of delegates. This is not only a necessary inference from the character of the contests, but it was boldly avowed by the chief editor of the newspapers owned by Mr. Munsey, who has been Mr. Roosevelt's chief financial and newspaper supporter. The 238 contests were reduced by abandonment to seventy-four.

The very fact of these 164 frivolous contests itself reflects upon the genuineness and validity of the remainder. The seventy-four delegates include six at large from Arizona, four at large from Kentucky, four at large from Indiana, six at large from Michigan, eight at large from Texas and eight at large from Washington, and also two district delegates each from the Ninth Alabama, the Fifth Arkansas, the Thirteenth Indiana, the Seventh, Eighth and Eleventh Kentucky, the Third Oklahoma, the Second Tennessee and from each of nine districts, the First, Second, Fourth, Fifth, Seventh, Eighth, Ninth, Tenth and Fourteenth of Texas.

CONTESTED DELEGATES AT LARGE, Arizona.

In the Arizona convention there were ninety-three votes. All the delegates—six in number—were to be selected at large. The counties were entitled to select their delegates through their county committee or by primary. In one county, Maricopa, a majority of the committee decided to select its delegates and a minority to have a primary. In other counties there were some contests, and the state committee, following the usage of the national committee, gave a hearing to all contestants in order to make up the temporary roll. There was a clear majority of the Taft delegates among the uncontested delegates. The committee made up the temporary roll and then there was a bolt, sixty-four remaining in the hall and twenty-five withdrawing therefrom. The case of the Taft majority was so clear that it is difficult to understand why a contest was made.

INDIANA. In Indiana the four Taft delegates at large were elected in a state convention to which Marion county, in which Indianapolis is situated, was entitled to 128 votes. A primary was held in Indianapolis, at which Taft polled 6,000 and Roosevelt 1,400 votes. This gave Taft 106 delegates in the state convention from Marion county, and if they were properly seated the control of the convention by a large majority was conceded to Taft. Attempt was made to impeach the returns from Marion county by charges of fraud and reapportionment. These charges were of a general character, without specification except as to one ward out of fifteen wards, and then the impeaching witness admitted he could not claim fraud enough to change the result in that ward. The national committee, upon which there were fifteen anti-Taft men, rejected the Roosevelt contestants and gave the Taft delegates their seats by a unanimous vote. Senator Borah and Mr. Frank B. Kellogg, both Roosevelt men, made speeches in explaining the votes in which they said that the case turned wholly on the Marion county primary, and as there was no evidence to impeach the result certified, the title of the Taft delegates was clear. This is the convention whose proceedings called forth such loud charges of theft and fraud from Mr. Roosevelt.

KENTUCKY. In Kentucky a contest was filed against only three of the four delegates. Einstein has just received a line of men's and boys' porous knit underwear, also a full line of boys' and men's shirts.

at large. The fourth Taft delegate's seat was uncontested. The three contestants admitted they were not elected by the convention which sent the Taft delegates or by any other. They only contended that if the Roosevelt forces had had a majority they would have been elected. There were 2,356 delegates summoned to the convention by its call. There were 449 of these whose seats were contested. If all of these had been conceded to Roosevelt it would have made the Roosevelt vote 297 votes less than a majority. The appeal to the committee on credentials from the decision of the national committee was abandoned, as it ought to have been.

Michigan.

In Michigan the state convention had in it about 1,200 delegates. There were only two counties in dispute or contest. One was Wayne county, in which Detroit is situated, and the other was Calhoun county. The evidence left no doubt that the Taft men carried by a very large majority Wayne county, but it was immaterial whether this was true or not, because, leaving out both Wayne county and Calhoun county, the only counties in contest, the Taft delegates outnumbered by several hundred the Roosevelt delegates, and they had a clear majority out of the total number of votes that should have been in the convention. The contest was so weak as to hardly merit recital.

Texas.

In Texas there were 249 counties, of which four have no county government. The 245 counties under the call of the convention were allowed to have something over 1,000 delegates, representing them, who were given authority to cast 245 votes. Of the 245 counties there were ninety-nine counties in which the total Republican vote was but 2,000, in fourteen of which there were no Republican voters, in twenty-seven of which there were less than ten each and in none of which was there any Republican organization and in none of which had a primary or convention been held. It was shown that Colonel Cecil Lyon, to whom had been assigned as referee the disposition of the patronage of the national Republican administration for ten years in the state, had been in the habit of controlling the Republican state convention by securing from two federal officeholders in each of these ninety-nine counties a certificate granting a proxy to Colonel Lyon or a friend of his to represent the county as if regularly conferred by a Republican county organization. The national committee and the committee on credentials and the convention after the fullest investigation decided that these ninety-nine counties in which the Republican vote was so small and in which there was no Republican party, no convention, no primary, no organization, was not the proper source for a proxy to give a vote equal to that to be cast by the other 146 counties in which there was a Republican organization and in which primaries or conventions were held. The two committees therefore held such ninety-nine proxies to be illegal and not the basis of proper representation. The two tribunals who heard the case decided that they should deduct the ninety-nine votes from the total of 245 and give the representation to those who controlled the majority of the remainder. The remainder was 152 votes, and out of that the Taft men had carried eighty-nine counties, having ninety votes. This gave to the Taft men a clear majority in the state convention and with it eight delegates at large.

WASHINGTON.

The contest in Washington turned on the question whether the Taft delegates appointed by the county committee in King county, in which Seattle is situated, were duly elected to the convention or whether a primary, which was subsequently held and at which Roosevelt delegates were elected, was properly called, so that its result was legal. Under the law the county committee had the power to decide whether it would select the delegates directly or should call a primary in some counties of the state one course was pursued and in other counties the other. In King county the committee consisted of 250 men, the majority of whom were for Taft, and that majority, acting through its executive committee, selected the Taft delegates to the state convention. Meanwhile the city council of Seattle had redistricted the city. It before had 250 precincts. Now substantially the same territory was divided up into 381 precincts. The chairman of the county committee was a Roosevelt man. He had been given authority by general resolution to fill vacancies occurring in the committee. A general meeting of the committee had been held after the city council had directed the redistricting of the city, in which it was resolved, the chairman not dissenting, that representatives could not be selected to fill the 331 new precincts until an election was held in September.

1912. Thereafter and in spite of this conclusion the chairman assumed the right by his appointment to add to the existing committee 131 precinct committeemen, and with these voting in the committee it is claimed that a primary was ordered. There was so much confusion in the meeting that this is doubtful. However, the fact is that the Taft men protested against any action by a committee so constituted on the ground that the chairman had no authority to appoint the 131 new committeemen. They refused to take part in the primary, and so did the La Follette men. The newspapers reported the number of votes in the primary to be something over 3,000. The Roosevelt committee showed by affidavit the number to be 6,000 out of a usual total Republican vote of 75,000. The action of the chairman of the committee in attempting to add 131 precinct men to the old committee was, of course, beyond his power. The resolution authorizing him to fill vacancies, of course, applied only to those places which became vacant after they had been filled and clearly did not apply to 131 new precincts. It could not in the nature of things apply to a change from the old system to a complete new system of precincts created by the city council, because if they were to be filled the entire number of 331 new precincts different from the old must be filled. One system could not be made into the other by a mere additional appointment of 131 committeemen. No lawyer will say that such action by the committee thus constituted was legal. Therefore the action which the lawful committee of 250 took in electing Taft delegates who made a majority in the state convention was the only one which could be recognized as valid.

DEVELOPMENT ASSOCIATION WILL FIGHT MOSQUITOES.

With interested city officials of Burlingame, Hillsborough and San Mateo, the Board of Governors of the County Development Association took up the question of mosquito control on Tuesday evening. Permanent control of this evil was demanded in the discussion that arose and it is hoped that a positive plan of action will be decided upon at a conference to be held at the association's office next Saturday evening between the trustees of the three cities, their attorneys and a committee from the development association, composed of S. D. Merk and C. M. Morse.

The Development Association.

We don't want to be slung, but isn't it just a little bit "gally" to raise such a howl about the "swiping" of a few delegates and then boldly undertake to "crib" a whole state organization.

The Colonel seems to have been putting in most of his time lately firing up a little steam roller of his own. Someway, so far, the whistle seems to be about the only part of the machine that works successfully.

SOME HOENST THIRD TERMERS.

Evidently Minnesota "Progressives" have their own ideas of political honesty, and it seems to differ from the brand exhibited in some other states. The Republican convention of that state, which met before the holding of the National Convention, selected a full ticket of presidential electors. Since that time seven of the electors named have decided to cast their lot with the third term party. Following this decision they have sent their resignations to the state central committee and suggested that their places be filled by men who can support the nominee of the Republican party. In explanation of their action they stated that they consider the course pursued to be the only honorable one open to them. Evidently these men, unlike the Colonel and some of his cohorts in other states, are willing to apply the command "Thou shalt not steal" to themselves as well as to others.

EVERY PARTY ITS OWN LAWMAN.

A national political party is nothing more nor less than a voluntary association of a great number of people who wish to cooperate for political purposes. No person can be compelled to become or remain a member of it. No one can be required to contribute to its support, nor can any person be compelled to remain within it or to follow its dictates. If he does so, it must be entirely of his own will.

But such an organization, if it is to have stability, it is to be effective for any general purpose, must be something more than an incoherent multitude actuated by kindred sympathies and objects, each left to act independently. It must be organized into a compact body and subject to definite rules and regulations, to which all who continue within its ranks must submit and agree to be governed. Adherents of any such party have the undoubted moral and legal right to so organize themselves and to adopt and enforce such principles, policies and methods as seem most likely to achieve the ends sought.

As a part of such organization, they have an undoubted right to form a national convention, clothed with such powers as they may see fit to invest it, and governed by such rules as they may deem most suitable for its conduct. No one can be wronged by this procedure, for no one need be connected with it unless he so desires. Its membership is a purely voluntary one, as much so as any church or fraternal organization.

Being thus a voluntary organization, the right of the political party to make rules for its own government must be unquestioned. Nor has any state the right to interfere with or amend these laws, any more than it has the right to dictate the laws of an ecclesiastical or fraternal organization.

Upon this principle the Republican party was formed and has for much more than half a century continued its existence, governed, as has been its rights, by laws of its own making. Under these laws it has constituted its national convention as its supreme governing body and has provided regulations under which the constituent parts of the national convention are selected. These rules no state has a right to abridge or alter. The state has no more right to dictate by law the method of selection of delegates to the national convention of the party than it has to determine the manner of the selection of the members of the general assembly of the Presbyterian church, the grand lodge of the Odd Fellows, or of any other voluntary organization.

Under the rule of the Republican party the delegates to the national convention are required to be selected by districts, not from the state at large. This rule has been the definite and settled law of the party since the convention of 1880. At that convention, among the membership of which was numbered many of the most eminent men of the party, this question was given exhaustive consideration and by almost unanimous consent was made the imperative rule of the party. From that date to the present time, every call issued for a national convention of the party has embodied this rule. The legislature of California, nor of any other state, has neither the legal nor moral right to abrogate this rule. It was the undoubted right of the Chicago convention to demand that its delegates should be elected in accordance with this mandatory rule of its organization. In doing so it simply followed the law of the party under which the convention was called and held. Certainly there can be no possible ground for charges of either fraud or theft in such action.

SOMETHING OF A FIZZLE

The news reports of the Oregon state convention of the "Progressives" would seem to indicate that the new party has not taken such a general hold of the voters of that state as has been expected by its managers. Out of the thirty-four counties of the State, but twelve were represented in the convention. A new party which can succeed in coaxing a representation from but about one county in three need not cause much alarm among the Republicans of Oregon.

No community can become really prosperous unless its residents are loyal to it and express that loyalty in a positive and substantial way. No more substantial evidence of loyalty can be given than the extending your patronage to local business houses. "Trade at Home" is a good motto and one that in the long run pays.

Injured in Auto Mixup.

Having survived two automobile accidents in one day, incidents of which were a fall over a fifty-foot embankment and two collisions with other vehicles, Edward Hillebrand is alive in the Huling Hospital in this city, with no more serious injuries than a broken leg. In company with William Benedict, Hillebrand was driving over the mountain road from Woodside to La Honda when an automobile, driven by W. Parker Lyon, former mayor of Fresno, crashed into their buggy. The horse shied and Hillebrand and Benedict were thrown over a fifty-foot embankment and the former's leg was broken in two places. His companion was uninjured. Lyon placed Hillebrand in his automobile and was taking him to this city when they were run into by an auto bus on the Weatherbee stage road. Both machines were badly damaged, and a woman occupant of the bus was thrown out and slightly injured. After repairs were made the trip to Redwood City was continued and Hillebrand was placed safely in the hospital here.

Local Scenes at the Bell.

The special program offered at the Bell Theater last Tuesday evening attracted an unusually large audience, and those who attended were treated to an excellent entertainment. The portrayal of Sir Walter Scott's beautiful poem, "The Lady of the Lake," might well be characterized as a masterpiece piece of art and mechanical skill. The acting and costuming was a perfect portrayal of the poem, while the pictures were remarkably clear and distinct. For next week there will be the usual four changes of program, with some special selections. For next Tuesday evening the program will present what should prove an attraction of special local interest. On that evening the special attraction will be "The Dead Man's Claim," the scenes for which were taken in Niles Canyon last April at the time of the Odd Fellows picnic at that place.

OLIVER N. MOXEY OPENS NEW TRACT IN THIS CITY.

A further indication of the popularity and prosperity of Redwood City is shown in the opening of an immense new subdivision by Oliver N. Moxey, the San Francisco real estate dealer. About a year ago Mr. Moxey opened up Central Park which is, geographically speaking, in the center of Redwood City. That tract has already been sold out to prospective home builders and Mr. Moxey has just placed on the market a tract three times the size of Central Park, located near by.

Mr. Moxey is very enthusiastic on the subject of Redwood City's future, and firmly believes that it is the "City of Destiny." He is one of the city's best friends. A very attractive booklet has been published by him, printed on high quality paper, and filled with illustrations, showing the beauties of Redwood and describing its many advantages of climate, location, transportation, etc., and giving a full and truthful writeup of the city in every way.

A great change is looked for by Mr. Moxey between now and 1915. He says that there is in the air a feeling of "something coming." He reports active inquiries from prospective buyers in his new tract and is looking forward with keen anticipation to the entertainment of numerous visitors to Redwood, whose object in coming will be the inspection of his tract.
